RAVE Mobile Safety is recommended as the preferred mass notification platform for DeKalb County based on operational reliability, ease of use, cost effectiveness, and alignment with county emergency management requirements. RAVE provides rapid, multi-channel public alerting through SMS, voice, email, desktop, and mobile app notifications, and is widely used by local governments and public safety agencies during real-world incidents. The platform is straightforward to administer and quick to activate, reducing the risk of delays or user error during time-critical events. RAVE supports role-based access, pre-scripted messaging, and integration with existing county systems without requiring specialized technical staff. Compared to alternative platforms, RAVE delivers the required all-hazards alerting capabilities without unnecessary complexity or added cost, resulting in a lower-risk and more fiscally sustainable solution. Based on operational fit, performance, and total cost of ownership, RAVE represents the best overall value for DeKalb County's emergency notification needs.
