

Manomay Malathip currently serves as the Executive Director, Student Advancement at DeKalb County School District. In her role she is responsible for the Career Technical Education programs, Parent and Family Engagement, and Postsecondary outreach. Prior to that her work she has been in the Kansas City, Mo area where she was the Director, Graduation and Postsecondary Outreach for over three years. In this capacity she worked to implement a district-wide college and career readiness curriculum for all elementary schools, designed a premier internship program for high school students, and created opportunities for students to succeed beyond high school. Ms. Malathip spent most of her career working with students and families as the Vice President Program Management for Kauffman Scholars, a program of the Kauffman Foundation. Her responsibilities include operation oversight of both Academic Enrichment Academies for middle school Scholars and Scholars2Leaders Academy for high school Scholars. In addition to the academy's operation she designs and implement the summer College Residential Institutes, manages large scale events, oversee partnership programs with Big Brothers Big Sisters and The Princeton Review, and works closely with the Coaching staff as it relates to Scholar support. Ms. Malathip also serves her community by participating in the Education for Healthy Community Action Team, Board member with Big Brother Big Sister, Kansas Afterschool Program: Quality Guidelines and Self-Assessment Tools workgroup, Board member with YMCA Young Achievers, and Board member with RUBIES.